i was there and witnessed a fellow one evening casting as if he had a dry fly on...after walking closer i could not help but ask him what he was doing. he told me that he just missed one on the top and said watch. after a couple of drifts didn't that thing come up and slurp his size 16 bwo, he set the hook and fought it for 10 seconds when his hook broke. so absolutly, but i agree with the consultation with the cosmic muffin as you could probabyl chuck dries for 3 days with out a strike?
