I have been avidly fly fishing for smallmouth for close to ten years. I am in a good area for it though. The Allegheny river, the Clarion river, and Redbank creek are all close to home for me. I have caught a handful of 20 inchers but they don't come easy. My biggest to date is 22 inches I caught last June out of the Allegheny. Most fly fishermen look at me like I'm crazy when I say I fly fish for smallmouth. I love my trout fishing and always will but there is something about smallmouth that just can't be matched.
