BMarx, is this your agenda and reason for registering? Please take photos of the crowds.

Seriously, why don't you review the wealth of personal observances as well as the data and such that has been posted on this message board since its inception. The subject has been beat to death.

Read the posts with an open mind.

Everything you say has been said before, but never really confirmed to be more than speculation. In any event, I think the board owner made it clear that he FAVORS the sharing of information and the discretion of the individual poster as to whether he wishes to share it.

If I were trolling for spots to fish and thought you had any idea where they might be, I'd simply read all your posts to see what you are objecting to.
