

Subject: : Gear Talk

Topic: : Orvis Waders

Re: Orvis Waders

Author: : YBFlyFisher

Date: : 2007/1/10 12:48:08

URL:

This past spring I made two mistakes in buying my first pair of breathable waders. The first mistake was buying the Cabelas brand and the second was buying boot foot. Never again for either one. I must have Aquaseal on every seam of the wader and the felt is coming off of the bottom of the boot. Plus, these boots weren't worn that hard as most of the summer I don't wear them. I'm now to the point where I need to wear my Duck Hunting 1200 gram boots, just to stay dry. I'm in the market for new ones this spring so this has helped a lot. Sure seems like a lot of money and a good amount of gamble to find waders that will last. Oh well it is either that or the old standby of plastic bags. 😞 I have found one thing that is great, though. UnderArmor Cold Gear! I NEVER get cold with this stuff on under my boots. I even found UnderArmor Cold gear socks! Wonderful under my waders and comfortable to wear.