

Subject: : Hatch and Entomology Forum

Topic: : Eastern Green Drake

Re: Eastern Green Drake

Author: : pcray1231

Date: : 2012/1/13 8:41:46

URL:

I was aware of size and color variation from place to place. But most bugs have that. I never thought of them as "distinct" populations, but rather more of a continuous scale. If they are distinct, it kind of leads you to a subspecies thought process.

I certainly believe ya though. You got the data!