My warmest appreciation to whom ever started this post.

I am quite confident that you had not started this post I would probably have not put my action optics on the passenger seat of my 4 runner. And without this thread they would quite probably have not slid off the seat next to the passenger door. And I probably would have not gone out in the evening, opened the door, and closed it, smashing my action optics to smithereens.

And without this post I would have not discovered that I could get a discount on a new pair at Action Optics at Eyesave.com.

I really loved those action optics!!!!

Assume the service is good unless I make a posting otherwise.
