Sal,

Thanks for the great read. I've been fly fishing the bloodworm since the early 70's when the pattern was a local Big Spring secret. My ties have evolved, but I caught plenty of fish using plain red sewing thread. The local five and dime store sold a particular color of thread that was perfect match. If given the chance, I would purchase their entire inventory. Sounds terrible in retrospect, but apparently I was competitive in my teens. Must have 4 or 5 cases of it in my attic.
