

Subject: : Hatch and Entomology Forum

Topic: : Eastern Green Drake

Re: Eastern Green Drake

Author: : Chaz

Date: : 2012/1/30 1:26:28

URL:

There are a few streams in the Poconos that have a dark green drake, is that the other GD you are asking about Sandfly?

A population doesn't make it a distinction to a subspecies, it would have to have something more than just size to make that distinction. Such as a life history difference. Size varies in these things because of differences in the chemistry of the water and amount of food, it also cause some color differences.