

Subject: : Hatch and Entomology Forum

Topic: : Eastern Green Drake

Re: Eastern Green Drake

Author: : ryguyfi

Date: : 2012/1/30 11:10:45

URL:

Most of the Hex hatch in Western Pa waters is on warm water fisheries. The major river systems seem to be pumping out the big bugs more and more in the last few years. Maybe they'll stretch to some trout streams, but I haven't really seen any yet.

The biggest bugs we get over here on a trout stream are the brown drakes. They come around the 3rd week of May and last about a week max. The stream in this area that gets them the most is the Neshannock. I don't have any great pictures or I'd post one. They're about 5/8" big.