Too many variations even from one drainage to the next.

Specially color, size, and timing. That's why the biological markers make things a lot easier. Wings plane or mottled, hind wing absent, small, or large, and 2 or 3 tails.

That alone gets you down to, typically, 5 or 6 genuses. From there, things are sometimes easy, sometimes not.

I'm pretty decent at getting genus, much more difficult to get species.
