An alternative to consider (not that I support it, but it would allow some to have cake and eat it to) is to make the Stream Reports section members-only, with access gained at 50 or 100 posts.

I agree with this, I used to think that spot burning didn't matter but my thinking has changed. That is my opinion only, and am not trying to tell anyone not to post their steam reports because I enjoy reading them. Some streams are impossible to spot burn though. By opening this new post I am assuming that it was ok to talk about spot burning in here because it would then not be off topic.

Edit: Never mind, I read what you said at the bottom after my post, sorry.

I'll throw a vote in for making the Stream Reports members only. Problem 90% solved I would think. If that doesn't quiet the folks yip'n n yap'n about spot burning down then take the next step to stop the bitch'n. I'm not a moderator but, I did stay at a Holiday Inn last night.....
