I'm not going to come down on one side or the other as far as the suggestions here. But I would like to say is that I wish all threads with topics as explosive as this can be as well argued and civil as this one.

Not trying to be condescending to anyone but this is the way we should always be as a group. As someone pointed out, we all at least have this one passion in common and should be able to have civil debates which are entertaining and informative.
