

Subject: : Gear Talk

Topic: : Salt Water Set Up

Re: Salt Water Set Up

Author: : JoeE

Date: : 2007/1/12 10:51:06

URL:

One tip I can offer is that the fish you are going to catch are not leader shy. I fish a 5' straight tippet or less with 17-20 pound. If the leader/tippet is too long you get a belly in the line and your fly is above your fly line and your depth is not as deep as you think. I was not getting strikes and I guy helped me out with that tip and it has paid off. Also, change speed and death more than the color of the fly and if you have not practiced your two-handed stripping with the rod tucked under your arm you will have all the practice you need in a week at the ocean.

Joe E.