

Subject: : Tips and Tricks

Topic: : Early Season BWO's

Re: Early Season BWO's

Author: : afishinado

Date: : 2012/2/8 7:58:51

URL:

No one way to fish a dry dropper. Observe where fish are holding and feeding - in the film, below the surface, etc. A DD rig is the ticket to fishing the upper half of the column if the fish are holding and feeding there.

Unless the water is fairly shallow, a dry dropper is not a very good rig for nymphing the bottom. Two reasons - heavier flies make it difficult to float the dry, and adjusting the length of the dropper to stay on the bottom is difficult. In that case an indy or a sighter is best.