

Subject: : Tips and Tricks

Topic: : Early Season BWO's

Re: Early Season BWO's

Author: : mcwillja

Date: : 2012/2/8 14:00:42

URL:

Quote:

MKern wrote:

For dry dropper, I like no more than a foot between flies.

2 years ago I caught 3 fish in a row with both the dry and dropper hooked in their mouths. It happened 7 times total for me in a month's span too.

I attribute that to the proximity of the two flies. Exciting the fish to strike and..."what the heck, while I'm here I'll eat both bugs" thing.

Kern,

Do you have trouble with foul hooking fish when the dropper fly is 12" or less. I know I do when the dropper is short, the fly catches the fish and usually pulls the lead fly out of the fish's mouth. Not an issue when the fish takes the lead fly.