As TimMurphey wrote, I can't see the sky without my glasses, but my solution is a pair of polarized flip ups over my regular glasses. I fish a lot of small streams and am in and out of the sun all day, so being able to adjust to shade quickly is important. I prefer the amber to the green and keep one pair in my trout vest and one in the bass vest. Each pair usually lasts the season. Seems to work pretty well.
