

Subject: : Tips and Tricks

Topic: : Early Season BWO's

Re: Early Season BWO's

Author: : littlelehigh

Date: : 2012/2/12 0:21:38

URL:

Not to derail your thread but I've generally had more luck on sunken tricos fished deep than as a dropper rig. And done well from first light until 2pm or so with them. Last year I did more sunken trico fishing than trico dry fly fishing. If I catch up with you this summer I'll share another trico pattern with you.

As far as emerging BWO droppers anyone every try a yellow bodied fly. I've read they don't turn olive brown until they are exposed to the air and light for a few minutes.