You guys are killing me. (actually laughing right now)

Someone pickup the bloody mess of whatever that carcass is on the side of road and bury it for the love of God.

We are not gonna change anyone's view at this point. Everyone reading this post please raise your right hand and repeat after me-

I am am comforted in knowing that I am undoubtedly correct...again.

And your are!

Now let's go back to discussing cougars and bigfoots sightings, which are tradition February conversations.

dkile,

I got the backhoe running and a big hole out here in North West Pa in the back of my property. So you just drop off the dead horse at my property and I will bury it this weekend after I get done with my Nursing clinicals. :)

Thanks, now then....lets all get to tying flies and getting ready for the spring season.

Maybe see ya on a stream in NW pa.
