If you want a nice rod with similar action, a new e-glass or s-glass rod can be made for @ $175 or so. The 6'5" to 7'9" blanks are especially nice IMO, light weight, nothing like the older ones from 40 years ago. Nice moderate action that gets under your skin. There are numerous small manufacturers.

Not as light weight as a graphite rod obviously, however, if you pair one with an older vintage reel, they balance out very nicely and it's really not noticeable. Their actions make casting fun.
