I agree, he foul hooked that fish!

The stupid trout has no place to hide, so it just keeps swimming in the same spot until it gets snagged.

Up north, a new fad is putting a plastic pink bead on your line with a small treble about six inches behind. Some say it looks like a salmon egg, but it is also for the flyrodder to see and he keeps casting in front of the fish that can't move and sooner or later you snag it on the outside of the mouth. Some say it's better to hook a fish on the outside of the mouth? if you want to release them anyway? LOL
