Still a good general fishing magazine, IMO, though almost all articles come from the same group of about 10-12 writers. (I pm'ed DFG about what he said about me.)

rrt,

My brother (and I, to a lesser degree) talked about submitting an article. However, he had heard what you described; that there was an inside group of a few writers who actually got published. Do you have any insight into the inner workings of publication there or has it changed since the days when you wrote articles for it?
