Thank You Sandy.

I knew you would probably know. I guess what I call it isnt far from the common name. 😊 I was sure it wasn't the sulphur that hatch about 30 mins before dark into the evening. This little guy came out in decent numbers on the Lackawanna about 2 hours before sunset. I dont know if it dwindled when the sulphurs came out. The fish and I didnt take notice anymore 😊

* The pic is the fly on my eye glasses. There were so many they were hitting me all over my body.
