I used 6x the one year it was very low and clear. I did in fact put more steel on my rod and more steel to hand. But so many lost and as Jack said, you start to feel guilty about the other fisherman because you just cant bring them in fast enough.

Best solution I found was going to flouro even though I hate the tendencies of that product.

I couldnt believe the stuff. I'd snag one and try to snap it off, and the steelhead would come at me tail first.

Its worth its weight and price for steelhead.
