Haven't read the book, but I did listen to an interview of him talking about the book on Laura Ingrahams' radio show. The guy sure loves fly fishin' according to the interview. Just like most on this board, he just can't get out fishin' enough. It must be tough at times for him to get past "the Fonz" character that the public puts on him, but I'll bet fishing washes all that away. Sounded like a nice guy on the radio.
