barbless, I couldn't read the second treatise you typed, but the first was rather condescending. You are pointing fingers at others for being unconcerned as if you alone care about this stream. As fishidiot tersely pointed out, many folks have been following this and fighting it. I admire your passion, but I fear your approach here is going to be counter-productive. Those that can help will do so. Those that can't aren't going to be shamed into it, or at least I doubt that shame will motivate them. It may turn some off, though.
