
Subject: : Hatch and Entomology Forum

Topic: : What Kind of fly is this??

What Kind of fly is this??

Author: : Live2bowhunt

Date: : 2012/3/28 0:44:17

URL:

I was flyfishing today and as usual the little black stoneflies were hatching. Whenever a fly gets close to me I have a habit of catching it and look it over to see if I can find something new hatching. Well today I caught a bug and I cant figure out what it is.

- * It has 6 legs, 2 pair on each side of the body and 2 extending out in front of the whole insect.
- * Its wings are a grey and has the appearance of a black garbage bag streached untill it turns grey.
- * It has 2 tails that are grey
- * The main color of the body is a greyish olive green.
- * From the tip of its forelegs to the end of its 2 tails its about 1/2" long.

Now that I finally figured out how to work my camera..I can post some photos of him. (His wings messed up but it was either messy wings or a crushed bug.. fat fingers) 😊

<http://i1118.photobucket.com/albums/k618/Wholaverj/008.jpg>

<http://i1118.photobucket.com/albums/k618/Wholaverj/007.jpg>

<http://i1118.photobucket.com/albums/k618/Wholaverj/006.jpg>

<http://i1118.photobucket.com/albums/k618/Wholaverj/005.jpg>

Here's some with flash..color em up a little.

<http://i1118.photobucket.com/albums/k618/Wholaverj/009.jpg>

<http://i1118.photobucket.com/albums/k618/Wholaverj/013.jpg>

<http://i1118.photobucket.com/albums/k618/Wholaverj/010.jpg>

He was hatching out of a rapid that was coming down into a large hole..as most flies hatching come from rapids.