Dig a hole and I will fall into it.

If you're going to comp..That was not the stupidest advice I could have given. Pretty lame given all of the custom leaders. Too much time on the beginners forum..if you are considering competition. There is no measuring when you rip out line after you just wrapped a tree and need to redo and you have 5 minutes left until your beat ends and nothing to show in your net. . Grab some line, grab a fly, 5 second knot, netting, netting, netting if you catch something and don't get so excited that you bump the fish accidentally in the nose and lose it or catch one and have a controller that is gabbing at the top of the bank instead of where you asked him to wait. LOL! Maybe Gary will volunteer to be a controller.

If you're going to do it. Save more then you spend on fishing gear for hotels food and lodging. I heard bologna and bleu cheese sandwiches are the fuel of champions. Best of Luck.
