Thanks guys! I appreciate the responses. I'll bring something to imitate them with me just in case the hatch isnt over yet.

I've seen a hellgrammite once on the Neversink in NY and it was a pretty scary looking bug. Can they bite through waders? lol

With the hatches being so far ahead of schedule already I suspect we might run into the Green Drakes when we're there (May 11-13th) but I wouldn't mind if we don't since I understand it gets pretty crowded there during the GD hatch.
