

---

Subject: : Tips and Tricks

Topic: : bounce rigs fro nymphing?

Re: bounce rigs fro nymphing?

Author: : afishinado

Date: : 2012/4/11 10:25:40

URL:

Quote:

pratt wrote:

anyone ever use the 'bounce rig' for nymphing in PA? I was in Utah last week fishing the Provo River, and the bounce rig is big there. I liked fishing with it as it prevented alot of the normal hangups that I get when nymphing - but after reading a bit about the rig online..I'm not sure it would be as effective in PA waters. Does anyone have experience with bounce rigs in PA? I'd love to hear about trials/tribulations as well as leader formulas for constructing my own bounc rigs...

Trial without tribulation mostly. It works for down and dirty nymphing. You can put a string of SS on the point with a fly or flies on the droppers, just use an overhand knot on the end to prevent them from slipping off. You can also use a dropper for the SS to get a more horizontal presentation. Give it a try.

Here's a PAFF thread from back a ways with a lot of nymphing rig tips: Nymphing rigs