if your having trouble with blood knots you can always try back-to-back uni knots....it will stay in line like a blood knot, is fairly similar (but i think easier) and the breaking strength shouldn't suffer too much.....I think sometimes people don't realize that the difference between 96% knot strength and 88% knot strength with 4 lb tippet is less than 5 ounces....if that really matters to you then great but it can kind of make you wonder if the easier to tie knot may be the better way to go for anyone wondering those were arbitrary numbers to show a point
