I have an outing with a buddy I haven't fished with this year yet scheduled for Saturday. Depending on the timing of the rain (assuming it materializes) I think Sunday may fish better than Saturday, but my buddy works on Sundays...so we'll be going Saturday regardless.

The tradeoff for fishing on Saturday was that on Sunday I'd need to wash/wax the truck (haven't waxed it since last Fall) and finish mulching the landscaping, so I wasn't planning on fishing both days this weekend. Neither of those can be accomplished in a steady rain however...and the little Brookie streams may be running pretty good after a hard night of rain...so maybe with a little help from Mother Nature I will be fishing both days this weekend after all!
