

Subject: : Mayflys (Order: Ephemeroptera)

Topic: : Cream Cahill - Maccaffertium Interpunctatum

Re: One from last year

Author: : Stone_Fly

Date: : 2012/4/19 10:03:33

URL:

All cahills are tied with wood duck, ie, mottled wings, hence the name pink cahill. I didn't name the fly and it very well be call something different today than it was when I first identified it many years ago. These things change as we all know and what was once a stenonema is now something entirely different because some biologist want's his name on it.

I is not a sulphur and it is E, Vitreus. That has been the latin name for a long while. The 2 pics are nearly identical.