There are more fly fishing opportunities in northern MN than one could probably hit in a lifetime....and that's without even getting to the Boundary Waters.

There are many trout streams and trout lakes but, if it were me, I'd focus on mid sized rivers for smallies and muskies. I've not fished the actual upper Miss River but it is definitely a hotspot for bass. I would think the upper MS would be wadeable - you could definitely float it with a guide. You can fish all the way down thru the Twin Cities. If you do get out there, let us know how you made out.

Bring bug repellent for summer.
