I've been to MN several times and when you ask about trout streams and water you get a look kind of like, what's that? Really what they fish for are walleyes, and bass, both LM and SM. The Upper Mississippi R. is great for smallies. Just about anywhere from St. Cloud up. The river is swift so be careful if you wade.

As for trout fishing I have been to the headwaters of the MS. River, but I've been along the north shore of Superior, which is something to see if you've never been there. That area has some good trout streams. About the best I can tell you is find a fly shop or two or go to a Gander Mt. Store and talk to the Fly fishing guys. They will put you on water.
