Well, it's not a BWO of the Baetis variety, too many tails and too big. Though I am gonna guess its a BWO of the Drunella variety. Drunella Cornuta.

Markers. Well, there's no real good ones, both genuses have plain wings, large hind wings, 3 tails, and a size that includes your specimen. So I'm mostly goin by body color, as well as tail color (light tails on Drunellas, darker on Ephemerellas).

It is a female.
