

Subject: : Gear Talk

Topic: : why all the hate?

Re: why all the hate?

Author: : bigjohn58

Date: : 2008/3/31 12:52:28

URL:

I almost guarantee I could pick out a city slicker by just looking at them so I won't need to smell ya. I went to the Prudential building in Boston and in the observation tower they have a game to pick out the foreign people and the United States citizens and I aced the test. My friend was amazed but I guess thats just how redneck I am.

Come to think of it I own 2 Orvis products. I bought an Orvis vest because it was the closest thing to my old vest and I have Orvis boots mainly for the warantee. I've returned them several times and everytime I get a new pair without question. Their other products just don't impress me and I can usually find stuff that suits my needs better offered from other companies. I'm not brand loyal to any company though. Each company has their stand out products and I go for what suits my fishing needs for the best possible price.