

Subject: : Gear Talk

Topic: : Gloves

Re: Gloves

Author: : Maurice

Date: : 2007/1/17 9:44:29

URL:

For $3.50 you can get rag wool fingerless gloves that keep your hands warm, and your hands keep your fingertips warm. You need your fingertips to flyfish. Try doing it with mittens. And those ones with the mitten fit-over thing-a-mabob, well they have velcro and catch your line all the time. I have two pair of them if you want a pair.

One thing about the rag wool that I like, you can dunk your hand, tail a steelie, squeeze out the water and start fishing again. Your hand will warm the moisture in the rag wool.

A few years ago when I shortened one of my fingers by an inch, I found that it didn't like the cold very much, I was tramitized that I may not be able to fish in winter. I realized getting it wet was the issue. so I put a pair of latex gloves on under the rag wools, waa lah, no cold fingies.

Its rag wool for me pudie.

Maurice