Big Mayflies in Lakes?

Friday evening I fished a nearby lake for a little while. There weren't a lot of them, but I saw a couple of pretty big mayflies that I have no idea what they were. I wish I would of taken a picture. They were light yellow in color and it could probably be tied on a size 10 or 8 hook maybe. Does anyone know what they could be? The bluegills were rising to a bunch of smaller bugs, but I didn't see any fish try to eat the bigger ones though.
