Doc,

Here's a shot of me skating a fish into the net. One thing I did (because it was a smaller fish) is to slide the rod down in my hand to make it easier to get him closer to the net.

I would NOT do that with a larger fish!

But the head slightly out of the water and skating him into the net portion has worked pretty well for me.

Nobody mentioned it, but if you are netting for someone else, my technique is to come up behind the fish and let the angler drop the fish back into the net. Pros and cons comments sure to come.

Dave
