Like others will say, there really is no wrong way to fish a bugger. I usually like to fish them under an indicator nymphing, with an occasional twitch like goodfortune said, highsticking with a few twitches, and swinging. I have caught fish stripping, but for the most part use other techniques.

I usually use size 10s and 8s for trout and smallies. Usually white, but black and olive work awesome too. And I almost always tie them with a bead or conehead and still usually put on a few split shot if needed.
