Thanks for post. I fish the Yough watershed (the Yough itself & Laurel Hill Creek). They are the only pieces of water i fish. I know it sounds boring but they are only about 1 hour from home and I enjoy both very much. I always clean my gear after each trip so at least your can't blame me. If it was brought to this watershed by a careless angler, I just don't know what to say. Even with the price of gasoline, there are some folk that like to hopscotch around to different waters. By the way, which watershed, nearest the Yough, has the rock snot problem?
