I hope this junk never reaches the CV limestoners.

Ditto that...but it's my understanding that didymo doesn't really take hold in the true spring creeks, it's more exclusive to the constantly cold tailwater fisheries.

qwik Google search turned this up:

<http://www.biosecurity.govt.nz/publications/biosecurity-magazine/issue-78/spring-fed> though it's still important to be diligent if you're fishing tainted watersheds...
