O.K. If it's in the Yough now, what do we do. I've been cleaning my gear for years now. I hope that anglers that do travel to other watersheds are mindful of their gear also. The angling community I hope will do our part. As for kayaks, rafts and yes, driftboats, I hope they are aware of the situation. I'd hope the rafting industry in Ohiopyle has a plan. The river is "tuned" by the USACE for the rafting industries purposes more so than the anglers purposes. They've got a dog in this hunt too.
