Matt,

I'm also going to be buying new boots this year and they will definitely have studs. My friend who fishes about 150 days a year probably walks close to 1000 miles a season in his. In December I asked to look at his studs for the reason you asked about. They were worn some but not nearly as bad as I would have thought. He's had them for 2 years now too He wears the Chota's. I think they are the STLs. He is like you too in that he fishes a lot of little brookie streams that require a nice hike to get too.

Hope this helps.
