

---

Subject: : Conservation

Topic: : Didymo in the Youghiogheny?

Re: Didymo in the Youghiogheny?

Author: : ohiopylefisher

Date: : 2012/6/27 14:42:49

URL:

WHoa slow down,.... There is incredibly bad information being thrown around in this forum. I am an outfitter based in Ohiopyle ( Wilderness Voyageurs) I fish extensively and kayak, thus have had my eyes on almost every mile of the Yough from Confluence to Bruner run and beyond

1) didymo at the outflow??? This is the first I have ever heard this and I am pretty sure this is false. Since all of the agencies involved in the Yough-- Army Corps of Engineers, DCNR have been in contact with us and are referring to this finding as the initial finding of it in the Yough.

2) The location of the didymo is along the right bank below the Loop take-out in Ohiopyle. At this moment it is a patch about the size of 2 softballs.

Obviously this is very bad news for the entire river community and the area. Please lets try and keep the information based in reality.