driving home from a job this afternoon, I went past the drilling rig about a mile up the road from me and noticed a God-awful odor in that area, giving me an instant headache. I mean really nasty, can't even describe it, never smelled anything like it before. I'm just glad the damn thing isn't any closer to my house.

can't imagine working on one of those things, yep, you'll make a bunch of money, then die in 6 years!
