I remember a couple years ago when few people were fishing senkos and it was a legendary bait. They aren't nearly as effective now since so many people fish them. I still prefer spinning gear for largemouth, but I have caught my fair share on clousers--classic chart. and white. How big are the bass you target? I know some small ponds where you can have a blast sight casting hoppers to 12" LM. Still like I said, LM is the only fish I do not enjoy pursuing on the fly. In fact, I rarely fish for them.
