You're right... bass see the same lure week after week after week- and then that lure is not as effective anymore. I use a smaller version of the senko, it is pretty effective for me. I am a bank beater- usually get 10-12" fish, with occasional up to 16". But thats fun on UL gear.

My thinking is that not very many people use flies for LM... so they will not be so conditioned to seeing the same fly over and over again. Which could make FF better. If i could find a few flies that work.

This thread is very helpful. Thank you.
