Tom Gamber,

Thanks for posting this. As you know I am vehemently against Hydraulic Fracking especially on PUBLIC LAND.

The Area that is mentioned is also some of the southernly most Elk area in Clearfield County. It's bad enough that this county is probably the most Coal stripmined as well as has been drift/deep mined in the state. There is a lot of water, that had a little thought and care been put into the mining from the get go would be great Trout water. Instead it runs orange.

Land Rape for the mighty short lived/spent dollar instead of deliberate intelligent harvesting of natural resources....has been the theme of the day for a long time in this area as well as other areas of Pa and nationwide.

Always hear folks say that it's about money/jobs...never hear them say hey we are going to do this in a morally, ethical, responsible, and most ecological way possible. So that future generations as well as current generations may be able to enjoy the beautiful Pennsylvania Wilds.

I know some folks are from Clearfield County heck even Pa Trout Unlimited president Ken Undercoffer supposedly lives there. I wish Trout Unlimited would spend some effort in Pennsylvania keeping this Marcellus situation in check and applying some pressure to the folks that allowed such rampant disregard to happen without having the proper number of specially trained registered inspectors on the hunt at these well sites. I think if Western Pa was helped more everyone would benefit.
