because i got tired of being lumped in with the gear chuckers who littered and vandalized.

You can be a gear chucker and not litter or vandalize. I probably agree on the percentages of offenders, but your choice of tackle doesn't have a thing to do with how you act in these matters.

So, are you saying you were more concerned about how you were being perceived, rather than how you were actually acting?

Personally, I could care less what people think of me. I also was raised to carry everything out and respect the resource, by bait fishermen no less. Those values have nothing whatsoever to do with why I choose fly gear.
